Céad Míle Fáilte

From far and near the folks come here
To drink the very best
In comfort and in cleanliness
That pass the strictest test:
There's service and civility,
A friendly word for all
Who pull up at Kelly's
And give May a call.

May Kelly

So if you're passing by our place
On foot, on bike, in car,
Inside you'll find a smiling face,
A cheerful word, a "jar"
An Irish welcome waits you,
You'll be greeted by us all
If you pull up at Kelly's
and give May a call.

What is a Seisiún?

“Traditional music is as integral to the Irish pub scene as porter and whiskey.”

Seisiún (sessions) are informal gatherings of Irish traditional musicians that happen mostly in pubs. They are wonderful, spontaneous musical events that now can be found all around the world. If you were to come across one you would find musicians sitting around a table usually engaged with each other in a way that you might expect them to be having a friendly game of cards. You might even think that they're a “band” but looks would be deceiving. Lovely bouncy tunes would be coming out of the circle and everyone that's playing them knows the intricate melodies. And sometimes a song is called for and the room becomes quiet so the song can be heard.

The tunes played are from a living tradition of Irish dance music that dates back about 300 years. Reels, jigs, hornpipes etc. are played with grace and agility, and occasionally a slow air or a waltz will be lovingly performed for everyone's enjoyment. The instruments might include fiddles, flutes, accordions, uilleann pipes, concertinas, tin whistles, mandolins, banjos, bodhráns, guitars and sometimes piano.

Seisiúns are usually open to anyone that wants to join in provided they already know how to play Irish traditional music. And if anyone sings Irish ballads or songs most hosts will be happy to “shush” the crowd so the song can be heard. And you never know ... dances might even break out from time to time.

Charlie Lennon said, “A good Seisiún can leave you walking on air send home happy and keep your mind filled with music for a whole week.”

"Wine comes in at the the mouth and love comes in at the eyes;
thats all that we will know for truth
before we grow old and die.
I lift my glass to my mouth,
I look at you and I sigh."

PATRICK KAVANAGH

Irish Poet (1904-1967)

ON RAGLAN ROAD

On Raglan Road on an autumn day I met her first and knew
That her dark hair would weave a snare that I might one day rue;
I saw the danger, yet I walked along the enchanted way,
And I said, let grief be a fallen leaf at the dawning of the day.

On Grafton Street in November we tripped lightly along the ledge
Of the deep ravine where can be seen the worth of passion's pledge,
The Queen of Hearts still making tarts and I not making hay -
O I loved too much and by such and such is happiness thrown away.

I gave her gifts of the mind I gave her the secret sign that's known
To the artists who have known the true gods of sound and stone
And word and tint. I did not stint for I gave her poems to say.
With her own name there and her own dark hair like clouds over fields of May

On a quiet street where old ghosts meet I see her walking now
Away from me so hurriedly my reason must allow
That I had wooed not as I should a creature made of clay -
When the angel woos the clay he'd lose his wings
at the dawn of day.
